

Studio RED Rooted

IN MIDTOWN

In honor of its clients, consultants and friends, Studio RED Architects made a donation this past December to Trees for Houston and Mayor White's Million Trees + Houston initiative. The thirty-gallon trees were planted along McGowen and Caroline Streets.

Peter Ed Garrett, partner of Studio RED said, "Since moving to Midtown at the beginning of the year we have tried to get involved and be good neighbors. We saw this as a great opportunity to give back to the community and to help beautify the area for years to come."

Founded in 2005, Studio RED Architects has worked on many church, retail and theater projects around Houston including Lakewood Church, Fellowship of The Woodlands, Alley Theatre, the Shops at Houston

Center, Houston Baptist University, AD Players and Houston's First Baptist Church.

Million Trees + Houston is a public/private initiative similar to the Million Trees efforts in New York City, Los Angeles, and Chicago. Houston and its collaborators have set a three-to-five year goal for this ambitious project. To learn more about this city-wide project, go to milliontreesplushouston.org

To partner with an already planted tree in your own Midtown neighborhood, learn about the Adopt-A-Tree Program on Midtown's homepage at houstonmidtown.com. ■